Yellow teas are made for the appreciation of locals and have never had a broad market presence. On the market, however, famous “yellow” teas often retain their original name, even if they don’t retain their original processing techniques. yellow tea is becoming increasingly rare. Huo Shan Huang Ya, a famous yellow tea at one time, has been lost to history, which it has been made as green tea. Because the expense in producing it could not be sustained in the local market. We try to provide real yellow tea in the wholesale list, although there are not many tea masters that they can produce yellow tea with original traditional method.
